C. BACKGROUND AND EXPERIENCE

Presentation	Pura Vida Mobility is a Spain-based organisation specialised in international learning mobility and Erasmus+ support services, based in Alicante. The organisation works as a local hosting and intermediary partner for schools, VET providers and other institutions involved in European mobility projects, supporting them in the planning, coordination and implementation of mobility activities in Spain. Pura Vida Mobility works with participants aged 15 and above, including VET learners, students, teachers, trainers and other education and training staff, depending on the scope of each project. The organisation collaborates with a broad network of local companies, training providers, professionals and institutions in Alicante, creating opportunities for meaningful learning experiences and work placements. It focuses on providing reliable local coordination, accommodation and transfer support, work placement and training opportunities, tutoring, cultural activities and continuous assistance throughout the mobility period, while maintaining clear and effective communication with sending organisations. Beyond the organisational aspects of mobility, Pura Vida

	Mobility aims to promote intercultural exchange, personal and professional development, inclusion and active participation in the local community.
Relevant activities	Although Pura Vida Mobility is a recently established organisation, its team brings several years of professional experience in the field of international learning mobility and Erasmus+ projects. The organisation has been created by professionals with a strong background in the coordination and practical management of European mobility activities, including work-based learning placements, internships, job shadowing, staff mobility and group mobility programmes. Through their previous professional experience, the members of the Pura Vida Mobility team have been directly involved in the organisation and management of mobility projects for learners, teachers and other educational staff. Their experience includes the coordination of accommodation, airport transfers and local transportation, participant support, communication with sending organisations, work placement arrangements, Learning Agreements and certificates, as well as the monitoring and day-to-day support of participants throughout their stay abroad. In addition to practical and logistical support, Pura Vida Mobility places importance on intercultural learning, personal development and integration into the local community. Building on the team's previous experience and continuously expanding its local network, the organisation aims to develop high-quality, sustainable and meaningful mobility opportunities in Alicante. Pura Vida Mobility is therefore building on the established professional expertise of its team while developing its own network and operational capacity in Alicante.

Target groups	VET learners, school pupils, staff, teachers, trainers, educators, etc.
What are the skills and expertise of key staff/persons involved in this application?	The key staff involved in this application combine project management, coordination, administrative, communication and partnership development competences relevant to the implementation of international mobility projects. The team has strong language and intercultural communication skills, practical experience in the operational coordination of Erasmus+ mobility activities, and knowledge of project planning, participant support, work-based learning and local partner management. The team also has experience in establishing and maintaining relationships with international partners, identifying suitable host organisations and coordinating the administrative and logistical aspects of mobility projects. More specifically, Elena Medori, Project Manager at Pura Vida Mobility, holds a Master's degree in European Project Management and European Professions from Sapienza University of Rome. She has almost 10 years of professional experience in the Erasmus+ and international mobility sector, gained through her previous work with European mobilities in Italy and Germany. She has been directly involved in the coordination of mobility projects, including work placements, group mobilities and staff activities, managing accommodation, transfers, participant support, documentation, communication with sending organisations and local host companies. She has strong organisational and intercultural communication skills and speaks Italian, English, Spanish, Portuguese, German and Russian. Francesco Della Porta, Assistant Manager at Pura Vida Mobility, contributes to the organisation's operational and administrative activities, supporting project coordination, communication with partners, participant management and the practical implementation of mobility programmes. His experience in the international mobility environment, combined with his organisational and communication skills, supports the smooth delivery of activities and the day-to-day assistance provided to participants and partner organisations. He has strong linguistic skills, speaking Italian, English, Spanish and German. Libero Dachille, the Director, brings extensive experience in management, sales, marketing and international cooperation, with a strong background in education, language training, travel and European projects.
